The garbage collectors

It is unbelievable how much rubbish we throw into the garbage bin. It always seems to be full. A garbage bin is never nice to look at and get near to. The smell can be quite strong. So we are very thankful to the garbage collectors who come and remove the garbage.

They normally come every day. If they miss a day or two, then the garbage bins in my neighborhood overflow onto the road. This invites dogs. Only when the garbage truck comes again is the problem taken care of. So we can see how important these garbage collectors are.

When they come, they usually make a lot of noise. Often they are moody. We understand them because their job is not very pleasant. It is dirty and smelly. Besides, God knows what sort of rubbish they have to handle every day. How they can stand the dirt and the stench I do not know. Perhaps they are used to it. I know for sure that they do not love their jobs. Who would love such a job?

Nevertheless, they do come regularly to perform an important job. On festive occasions, we give them gifts, usually small amounts of money, as a sign of appreciation for a job well done. Of course they are noisy and dirty, but how else can they behave when they have to do work that most people would not touch? Nobody would like to work as a garbage collector.

Anyhow someone has to do the dirty job. The least we can do is make their job easier by keeping our garbage in proper bins and showing them a little appreciation now and then.

The air, water and land all over the world are polluted in many different ways. This pollution (affects, effects, makes) the health of living things. Oils spills (pollute, polluted, pollution) sea water; and chemical waste pollute river water and ( die, protect, kill) marine life and spread disease. The (careless, careful, responsible) throwing of litter in the environment is dangerous for wildlife.
