Saving certain recyclable materials and taking them to (recycling – recycled – recyclable) Centres has become part of the daily routine in many homes. In my opinion, this should be encouraged for a number of reasons. Our towns, rivers and seas (become - will become - are becoming) more and more polluted with household waste. This could easily be (prevented – preventable – preventive) if people took the time to sort, save and recycle their rubbish. Hundreds of thousands of trees are unnecessarily cut down to make paper products. Again, by recycling the paper that we would otherwise throw away we could reduce this wastage. They say that special machinery is required and that many people have to be employed to operate it, thus making recycling more expensive than simple waste disposal.

They forget, (instead - therefore – however), that recycling both creates jobs and is beneficial to the environment. All points considered, I strongly believe that people should be made (aware – careless – indifferent) of the benefits recycling can bring, and should be encouraged to be responsible (about – of - for) improving their neighbourhood environment and take part in programmes that will help create a cleaner world for everyone in the future.

We can sort our waste by separating it and then taking it to the appropriate We can things such as jars and envelopes. We can buy recycled products like stationery. We can transform our waste food into a compost heap which we may use as for our gardens later.

Fewer teens are smoking cigarettes than ever before. But in recent years another trend has replaced it. More middle and high school students now use electronic cigarettes (vaping devices) than any other nicotine-containing product. Even though e-cigarettes are believed to be (safe) than tobacco, scientists know very little about the risks associated with them. Most troubling: Almost all e-cigarettes contain nicotine, the same (causing high level of addiction) Chemical found in tobacco cigarettes. (Incredible) , there was once a time when people didn't know the dangers of tobacco cigarettes. Up until the 1950s, doctors were frequently shown in ads promoting smoking. Now we know that tobacco smoke contains thousands of (poison) chemicals, including at least 70 known to cause cancer resulting in 480,000 U.S. (die) each year. E-cigarettes are still so new that scientists haven't had time to determine all of their (affect) Recent studies have revealed that some e-cigarettes release other toxic materials, such as cadmium, a metal that can cause (breathe) problems.
